

SMU Health Services, Department of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention:
Excerpts from Poster Series (2 of 4)

Boozology 101

In this class, students review their dwindling life options after binge drinking causes them to use poor judgment. Lab sessions include “Identifying Your STD,” “Social Networking with People You Meet in Jail,” and “Embracing Public Transportation After Your License is Revoked.”

It's NOT a required course.

If you think binge drinking and bad choices are just a normal part of the college experience, think again. Truth is, 60% of SMU students drink responsibly or not at all. Because really...avoiding the horror of humiliation is totally worth it. Don't sign up for a class you don't have to take.

If you choose to drink, do so responsibly.

Intoxicology 101

In this class, students experience the adverse effects of humiliating behavior associated with intoxication (often documented on YouTube), ultimately poisoning their reputations and chemically damaging their hopes for the future.

It's NOT a required course.

No matter what you've heard, college students don't have to get drunk. The fact is, 60% of SMU students drink responsibly or not at all. So the majority of students are still having fun -- without having to explain to the police why they are dancing naked on the lawn. Awkward. Don't sign up for a class you don't have to take.

If you choose to drink, do so responsibly.
